Aengus Bowers

My name is Aengus Bowers and I have been employed as a Learning and Teaching Support Officer at the University for the past 2 years. My work involves frequent communication with academics, professional staff, and students, as well as subject matter expertise of Moodle and associated learning technologies.

I am interested in utilising this technical knowledge of the Learning Management System, and understanding of various perspectives across the University community, to not only uphold the existing high quality of learning and teaching at the University, but to innovate and adapt to future challenges.

Aimee Turner

My name is Aimee (she/her) and I'm currently a learning designer in IEAC, and have been a learning designer with Federation since 2021. I have almost 20 years of experience in education, including working as a sessional academic and a learning skills advisor. I am currently actively engaged with the emerging pedagogy of artificial intelligence in higher education. Since moving into tertiary education in 2010, I have received three awards for excellence in learning and teaching.

I am interested in joining the Learning and Teaching Quality Committee. With my extensive experience and insights gained working as a learning designer at Federation, I believe I can contribute to the development of policy and implementation strategies that would enhance the quality of Federation's offerings.
